Did You Know...?

Ramazan Is A Time Of Spiritual Reflection And Worship

Muslims are expected to put more effort into following the teachings of Islam and to avoid obscene and irreligious sights, situations, talks and sounds. Eating & drinking, and some other behaviors and actions are prohibited and resistance of all temptations is encouraged. Purity of both thoughts and actions is important. Ramazan is also a time when Muslims are to slow down from worldly affairs and focus on self-reformation, spiritual cleansing and enlightenment; this is to establish a link between themselves and God through prayer, sacrifice, supplication, charity, good deeds, kindness, and helping others. It also teaches Muslims to practice empathy for those who are less fortunate; thus encouraging actions of generosity and charity.

Every day fasting starts at Sahur (a meal taken just before dawn) and finishes at Iftar (a meal taken right after the sunset). There is also a social aspect involving the preparation of special foods and inviting people for Iftar.

At the end of Ramazan there is a big celebration!
Everyone dresses in their best clothes. They go to the mosques to pray together. Special celebration meals are served up. Everyone has a holiday. Children are given sweets, presents and often new clothes. They often make offerings to the poor and sometimes buy each other presents. Candies are served to visitors during Ramazan. That is why Ramazan is also called the “Sugar Festival.”

The elderly, chronically ill, mentally ill, pregnant women, people that are travelling and some in other conditions are exempt from fasting. Depending on their condition they must endeavor to feed the poor in place of their missed fasting or must make up the days they miss.

Administration buildings, schools and most businesses are closed during this period. Public transport may run less frequently, and fares are usually lower compared to regular days. Highways may be overcrowded, especially in the morning of the first day and in the afternoon of the last day of the Ramazan Feast, as many people travel on these days.
