Sacrifice Holiday
The Sacrifice Holiday is one of the oldest Islamic holidays in Turkey. It commemorates the story about Prophet Ibrahim (Abraham) who showed obedience to God by agreeing to sacrifice his son, God then sent him a ram to be sacrificed instead. It is only obligated for those who earn more than a certain amount of income. They purchase a sheep, goat, or a cow to sacrifice in the name of God and then share it with neighbors, relatives, and mostly with the poor who normally cannot afford to eat meat. Traditionally, on the first day of the Sacrifice Feast after a special morning prayer the sacrifice ritual begins. The person who wants to sacrifice the animal gives permission to the butcher so the butcher sacrifices the animal on behalf of them. The butcher says a prayer before slaughtering the animal. In recent years, instead of sacrificing animals, some Turkish people make donations to charity organizations. Everyone’s best clothes are worn while they welcome guests to their homes, or visit relatives or friends during the holiday. The Sacrifice Feast comes about 70 days after the Ramadan Feast. The reason for the Feast dates changing is because Religious holidays are by the Lunar Calendar. According to old traditions it is unlucky to get married or start a new business in between these two holidays.

The Sacrifice Feast is an official four-day holiday in Turkey. Administration buildings, schools, banks, and post offices are usually closed. Most markets remain open, but may work on a special holiday schedule. Some people may use the four-day holiday to go on a vacation, that’s why traffic might be busier than normal.
